

The Owingsville Outlook.

VOL. XX.

OWINGSVILLE, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1899.

NO. 35.

Notice.

Having sold a half-interest in my business, and desiring to close up my individual affairs as speedily as possible, I earnestly request all those indebted to me to settle without delay.

S. P. ARCHISON.

It was John Tackett, tenant of J. B. Crouch, who sold his tobacco instead of John Fleming as The Outlook stated last week.

If Brother & Goodpaster haven't what you want in garden seeds, we don't know where you will find it.

Contractor James W. Smith expects to have W. D. Lightfoot's residence, in the east end of town, completed in 10 to 15 days.

Saddles and Harness, cheaper than you ever bought them before, at Ramsey & Co.'s.

CHAMPION DICK.—As a checker player Dick Conner is a "right smart." Last Saturday night he and a gentleman in Ashland played a couple of games, and Dick won both.

The celebrated Jersey Wakefield cabbage seed. For sale by BROTHER & GOODPASTER.

The usual premature zeal in garden-making was displayed by some during the pretty days last week, but the snow Saturday night warned them that a few fine days don't make spring at all.

Stoves, Tin and Quenware offered very cheap at Ramsey & Co.'s close out.

Wm. Kelley died at the Poorhouse Wednesday of last week, of neuralgia of the heart. He was a member of the 40th Kentucky Regiment, U. S. V. I., in the Civil War. He had applied for a pension, but failed to get it.

WANTED.—A young 3- or 4-year-old stallion. Must be cheap. Apply to Dr. G. W. CONNER, Owingsville Ky.

BREAKS UP HOUSEKEEPING.—Jas. Gillon has rented his residence property to Squire John A. Daugherty, giving possession April 1st. He will sell privately his household goods. He is undetermined yet just what business he will engage in, but will probably first travel awhile for the benefit of his health.

Garden Seeds of every description in bulk at Brother & Goodpaster's.

Mrs. Spencer Boyd and Mrs. Geo. B. Donaldson, of near Reynoldsburg, went Thursday on a shopping and sight-seeing visit to Lexington, to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cassidy, while there. The former's husband requested us to state that the ladies were expected to return home during the early spring. They returned Monday and report an excellent time.

T. S. Shurt will sell you Furniture, Buggies and Coffins cheaper than anyone. Cash or credit.

PARDONED.—Lieutenant and Acting Governor Worthington pardoned the Owingsville Electric Co. of its indictment in the Franklin Circuit Court for failure to comply exactly with the law in making a report to the State authorities, stating that it was evident that the said company had not wilfully violated the law, but had manifested considerable zeal in endeavoring to comply with the law.

Now is the time to buy a plow and set of gears while Ramsey & Co. are selling cheap to close out.

TOBACCO SALES.—J. M. Richard's purchases: on East Fork of Flat Creek, A. F. Stephens and Nellie Perkins' at 5c; on Naylor's Branch, John Horsman's at 5c; on Upper State Creek, Jacob and J. C. Warner's at 5c.

A. W. Bascom bought Robert Nixon's at 5c.

George A. Peed's purchases: on Prichard Ash, A. K. Coyle's at 6c; same and tenant James Conyers' at 5c; same and son John's at 4c; on Upper State Creek, Jacob and J. C. Warner's at 5c.

Wm. C. Tipton and Polk Menley sold their tobacco, on lower State Creek, to Thos. H. Gray, of Flemingsburg, at 7c.

Purchases of A. J. Nesbit and A. C. Jones: next town, C. T. Horsman's at 5c; on Prichard Ash, Fletcher Crouch and Henry Sorrell's at 5c and a premium; J. T. Horsman's at 4c; on Washington Branch, Conrad Crouch's at 5c; Fielder Horsman's at 6c.

Robertson Bros., of Bethel, T. J. Jones' crop, at Wyoming, at 7c.

Mrs. Crit Whaley's Death.—The host of relatives and friends of Mrs. Crit Whaley in this county were deeply grieved to hear of her decease, announced here in a dispatch to her uncle Richard Bigstaff, at her home in Independence, Missouri, March 16th. She was aged about 45 years, was reared in the Flat Creek section of this county, and resided there until her marriage to Mr. Whaley about twenty-five years ago. The end was not unexpected, as she had been suffering for some time with consumption of the lungs. She was a daughter of Simeon Young, her mother being a daughter of Dr. O. S. Bigstaff. She was one of the finest women ever reared in this county and was universally admired for her beautiful character, her accomplishments and many charms and graces of mind and person. The husband and family have the sincere condolences of The Outlook in their irreparable loss.

Talking about Seed Irish and Sweet Potatoes you ought to see what Brother & Goodpaster have. They are the finest specimens we ever saw; pure New York stock.

W. T. Moore, son of David Moore, of Reynoldsburg, and Miss Martha Snedegar, daughter of Moses Snedegar, of White Oak, were licensed to wed Monday. The wedding was reported to be set for Wednesday.

Ramsey & Co.'s stock is diminishing rapidly under the low prices offered. Don't you need something in their line?

WHAT RUBE SAYS.—In connection with Prof. Falb's dreadful prophecies for this year it is interesting to learn that Reuben Fields, the famous mental mathematician and animated timepiece of Warrensburg, Mo., now on his periodical visit to this country, says that a tornado will strike this town on June 11 and make debris of it. Rube's mathematical powers are unquestionable, wonderful as they may appear in mere relation to one who has never tested them. His chronometrical ability, more mysterious than his calculating powers, is accurate enough for all purposes except perhaps timing a race, but prophecy is a new role for Rube, and skepticism is permissible.

All persons knowing themselves indebted to us please call and settle their accounts at once.

Respt., S. SLEESER.

PERSONAL.

C. S. Templeman, of Moorefield, is here this week on business.

J. B. Goodpaster went Tuesday on a business trip to Marion Co.

Attorney J. S. Power, of Flemingsburg, was here on business last Thursday.

Hon. James A. Barnes returned from Frankfort Monday night. He will remain here.

Miss Bessie Botte, of Peeled Oak, came in Saturday to visit Mrs. Lee D. Brother and Miss Daisy Hazelrigg.

Mr. C. C. Hazelrigg went last Thursday to visit her daughter, Mrs. W. R. Scott, at North Middle-town.

Miss Clifford Hazelrigg has returned from a visit to her sister, Mrs. W. R. Scott, at North Middle-town.

W. T. Jones, of Millersburg, was up on a business trip Friday and Saturday and paid this office a friendly call.

Mrs. Elva Catlett, accompanied by Miss Lucy Colville, of Paris, returned Monday from a visit of a week at Mt. Sterling.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Jackson, of Speer, Montgomery Co., came Friday on a visit to the former's mother, Mrs. Sarah Jackson.

Tibbs Goodpaster and children, of Leon, Iowa, arrived Monday afternoon, the guests of C. T. Tackett. Tibbs will likely make his home in Bath county.

W. W. Moore delivered some clover hay to Dad Withrow at 70c per hundred.

Ben Spence moved to the Hose Part place from J. M. Collier's place last week.

White Professor Falb is, by many, considered a "crank," his predictions on seismic disturbances have been remarkably fulfilled. As, for instance, the great earthquake at Zante in 1883, he, several days before the earthquake occurred, sent warning to the press all over Europe. Again, in March, 1883, he was invited to lecture before the Tourist Club, of Vienna, on the subject of earthquakes, but, while accepting the invitation, postponed the lecture until after April 13, as an earthquake would take place about that time and he would prefer to include the results of his investigation of this earthquake in his lecture.

And, as the German proverb has it, "Das du mir geschen," the earthquake did occur on April 13 and was felt all over southern Hungary and did much damage.

Many incidents like these could be quoted, where predictions have been made out to two years in advance and been fulfilled. Professor Falb disclaims in the most peremptory manner that his warnings should be classed as predictions or prophecies.

"I am not a prophet," he said in an interview. "My theories are simply scientific investigations into mundane anatomy. The interior of the earth is filled with a matter mass, subject to ebb and flow just like the waters of the ocean. Every intelligent and educated man knows this. Between the surface of the earth and this molten mass, which is slowly cooling, there is only a shell of an average of eighteen miles in thickness, in some places thinner than in others, and here the confined forces escape in the form of gas. But not finding such an outlet, through the influence of the moon, a great tidal wave sweeps round the inner crust of the earth and produces the terrible phenomena known as earthquakes.

This is, in short, Professor Falb's theory, and it has been much disputed, particularly his reference to the influence of the moon. Professor Falb calls attention to the "fully established" instances where a comet has come in contact with our planet and the results.

616. January 14, ten people killed in China by the fall of a meteor.

623. November 3, thirty-five villages destroyed in Saxony.

651. September 4, many lives destroyed by falling meteors at Crema.

1749. November 4, a ship crossing the Atlantic was struck, killing several sailors.

Each of these instances, says Professor Falb, can be regarded as the fall of a small comet upon our planet. —Ex.

Good Whisky is both doctor and tonic. Better looking than doctors, better tasting than all medicine. For general family use, nothing equals whisky and HARPER Whisky is pre-eminently the family whisky.

Sold by YOUNG & LANE, Owingsville, Ky.

CORRESPONDENCE.

CONTINUED FROM FOURTH PAGE.

Craig.

I sent in my items last Monday, but they never reached the office.

Chris Garner has put up a nice new residence and moved into it last week.

Brother Tinsley's meetings were largely attended and did great deal of good.

James Snedegar and wife visited John Shourt and wife, near Moore's Ferry, last week.

Sam Shultz and wife visited the family of Daniel Blevins, near Olympia, last week.

James Snedegar and wife visited the family of Daniel Blevins, near Olympia, last week.

Mrs. Jo Snedegar and children Clyde and Walter visited Mrs. Melissa Snedegar one day last week.

There is talk of some setting up a "batch shambang," but I think it will fall through for the lack of a fiddler.

Robert Kelly and wife moved into the house vacated by Dee Rudder. We were glad to have them come in our midst; we always welcome good people.

Dee Rudder moved last week to the John Craig property on Prichard Ash. We are all very sorry to lose Dee and his estimable wife, for they were good neighbors.

John Coyle moved to the C. W. Honaker farm on Prichard Ash. We were sorry to have them go, for John was a good neighbor and had a nice family, but at the same time we knew he made a good move.

Died, Wednesday of last week, Willie Davis, the six-year-old son of Jeff Davis and wife, after a long illness of spinal meningitis. The sorrowing parents have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

Grieve no more for little Willie;

He from suffering now is free,

For the Savior said of children:

"Suffer such to come to me."

He has taken little Willie

To the happy realms above,

Where can come no tears nor sickness,

But unmeasured joy and love.

Little Willie is an angel,

From sorrow, pain and strife;

He will never know the sorrows

That crowd this mortal life.

You again may meet your darling

In that land of pure delight,

And numbered with its jewels in their garments pure and white.

Knob Lick.

Some were shipped last week.

Some plowing was done last week.

Sam Snelling is talking of moving to near Odessa.

We had one nice day Friday. Since then it has been fearful.

Charley Fowler killed a very large mallard duck on the Co.'s land.

W. W. Moore delivered some clover hay to Dad Withrow at 70c per hundred.

Ben Spence moved to the Hose Part place from J. M. Collier's place last week.

White Professor Falb is, by many, considered a "crank," his predictions on seismic disturbances have been remarkably fulfilled. As, for instance, the great earthquake at Zante in 1883, he, several days before the earthquake occurred, sent warning to the press all over Europe. Again, in March, 1883, he was invited to lecture before the Tourist Club, of Vienna, on the subject of earthquakes, but, while accepting the invitation, postponed the lecture until after April 13, as an earthquake would take place about that time and he would prefer to include the results of his investigation of this earthquake in his lecture.

And, as the German proverb has it, "Das du mir geschen," the earthquake did occur on April 13 and was felt all over southern Hungary and did much damage.

Many incidents like these could be quoted, where predictions have been made out to two years in advance and been fulfilled. Professor Falb disclaims in the most peremptory manner that his warnings should be classed as predictions or prophecies.

"I am not a prophet," he said in an interview.

"My theories are simply scientific investigations into mundane anatomy. The interior of the earth is filled with a matter mass, subject to ebb and flow just like the waters of the ocean. Every intelligent and educated man knows this. Between the surface of the earth and this molten mass, which is slowly cooling, there is only a shell of an average of eighteen miles in thickness, in some places thinner than in others, and here the confined forces escape in the form of gas. But not finding such an outlet, through the influence of the moon, a great tidal wave sweeps round the inner crust of the earth and produces the terrible phenomena known as earthquakes.

This is, in short, Professor Falb's theory, and it has been much disputed, particularly his reference to the influence of the moon. Professor Falb calls attention to the "fully established" instances where a comet has come in contact with our planet and the results.

616. January 14, ten people killed in China by the fall of a meteor.

623. November 3, thirty-five villages destroyed in Saxony.

651. September 4, many lives destroyed by falling meteors at Crema.

1749. November 4, a ship crossing the Atlantic was struck, killing several sailors.

Each of these instances, says Professor Falb, can be regarded as the fall of a small comet upon our planet. —Ex.

Good Whisky is both doctor and tonic. Better looking than doctors, better tasting than all medicine. For general family use, nothing equals whisky and HARPER Whisky is pre-eminently the family whisky.

Sold by YOUNG & LANE, Owingsville, Ky.

Good Whisky is both doctor and tonic. Better looking than doctors, better tasting than all medicine. For general family use, nothing equals whisky and HARPER Whisky is pre-eminently the family whisky.

Sold by YOUNG & LANE, Owingsville, Ky.

Good Whisky is both doctor and tonic. Better looking than doctors, better tasting than all medicine. For general family use, nothing equals whisky and HARPER Whisky is pre-eminently the family whisky.

Sold by YOUNG & LANE, Owingsville, Ky.

Good Whisky is both doctor and tonic. Better looking than doctors, better tasting than all medicine. For general family use, nothing equals whisky and HARPER Whisky is pre-eminently the family whisky.

Sold by YOUNG & LANE, Owingsville, Ky.

Good Whisky is both doctor and tonic. Better looking than doctors, better tasting than all medicine. For general family use, nothing equals whisky and HARPER Whisky is pre-eminently the family whisky.

Owingsville Outlook.

D. S. ESTILL, Publisher

OWINGSVILLE : KENTUCKY

TWENTY-ONE.

The heart is young, the step is light,
The voice is sweet, the eye bright,
Hope sings a song of delight
At twenty-one.

Rarely we know a passing tear,
Cane we have none, and little fear,
With song and jest our bark we steer.

Two sons, however, come dull care,
Life's work and battle must share,
Quickly we reach, mid storm and glare.
Twice twenty-one.

But they who read life's problem right
Their courage keep, when art as light
As when they stand for right
At twenty-one.

Long may you sail upon life's sea,
Mid Fortune's smiles and fancy free,
With friends as true can be,
Sweet twenty-one.

Thoughts fine, fine life he never saw,
Heart, in mind, in spirit gay,
As love-song tuned to minstrel lay,
Rest ever what you are to day.
Just twenty-one.

—London St. Paul's.

[Copyright, 1898, by Longmans, Green & Co.]

SYNOPSIS.

Chapter I.—D'Aurac, commanding officer where De Gomeron is held, tells story. He has been allowed to make a charge to Rone to examine into a charge made against him. Nicholas, a sergeant, brings in a letter from the camp of Paradise—oh, he is from the king's camp at Le Poer.

D'Aurac, angered by insulating manner of de Gomeron, orders the woman strikes him. A duellist follows, and during the confusion the prisoners escape. De Rone happens on the disreputable scene, and D'Aurac, upon giving him no rest, and D'Aurac, upon hearing this remarkable sentence: "Win or lose, I can't let you die in the class of the day, I will have you as high as Heaven."

Chapter II.—After this morning takes place as usual on de Rone's field. In the form of a comedy, the women running under cover of night among the dead. They had a golden collar on their bosoms. The Louvre's Mauguet (the partner) to gain possession of the prize. After this hideous scene Mauguet, with a woman who is a fair princess, who had escaped from the land of de Gomeron, rides off the field.

Chapter III.—After the battle in which King Henry triumphed over the forces of D'Aurac, leaving severely wounded, the forms of the women were running under cover of night among the dead. They had a golden collar on their bosoms. The Louvre's Mauguet (the partner) to gain possession of the prize. After this hideous scene Mauguet, with a woman who is a fair princess, who had escaped from the land of de Gomeron, rides off the field.

Chapter IV.—D'Aurac, after this morning takes place as usual on de Rone's field. In the form of a comedy, the women running under cover of night among the dead. They had a golden collar on their bosoms. The Louvre's Mauguet (the partner) to gain possession of the prize. After this hideous scene Mauguet, with a woman who is a fair princess, who had escaped from the land of de Gomeron, rides off the field.

Chapter V.—D'Aurac, commanding officer where De Gomeron is held, tells story. He has been allowed to make a charge to Rone to examine into a charge made against him. Nicholas, a sergeant, brings in a letter from the camp of Paradise—oh, he is from the king's camp at Le Poer.

D'Aurac, angered by insulating manner of de Gomeron, orders the woman strikes him. A duellist follows, and during the confusion the prisoners escape. De Rone happens on the disreputable scene, and D'Aurac, upon giving him no rest, and D'Aurac, upon hearing this remarkable sentence: "Win or lose, I can't let you die in the class of the day, I will have you as high as Heaven."

Chapter VI.—The two men, dry for their lives, and think themselves almost beyond further hope, come suddenly face to face with Bishop, one of the retainers of the king, whom D'Aurac cuts down, and with Nicholas, who makes short work of Nicholas.

Chapter VII.—Jacques, a friend of D'Aurac goes by night to where de Gomeron is staying. Standing before a broken pane, he calls out to the master of the house, against the king. Burning with revenge, Nicholas runs through the window at de Gomeron.

Chapter VIII.—The two men, dry for their lives, and think themselves almost beyond further hope, come suddenly face to face with Bishop, one of the retainers of the king, whom D'Aurac cuts down, and with Nicholas, who makes short work of Nicholas.

Chapter IX.—Calling on de Belin, a friend in Paris, the chevalier secures from his servant, named Raoul, (comte de Belin), a plan for the madame's escape into Switzerland. D'Aurac crosses the river, and when he comes to his boat, his clove, white, shining forehead, hangs on the spot. Bewildered by the danger to himself of such a disturbance on the street, he falls into the water, and swimming by plunging into the river and swimming to his boat.

Chapter X.—D'Aurac has his suspicions concerning his new servant, Raoul. Later he witnesses a meeting of the servant and de Gomeron. D'Aurac therefore sends him to his former service under de Belin.

CHAPTER XII.—CONTINUED.

I determined, therefore, to go up to my room and await de Belin's coming, and on my opening the door of my sitting-room saw to my surprise, a man approaching me with a smile. The noise of my entrance made him start. He jumped up, and I recognized my friend.

"Belin! what good wind has blown you here? But how did you come in? There is no one in the house."

"There was when I came in, my friend. Do you know?" and he looked me in the face—"you have made a mistake of things?"

"I have known it already," Belin, I have just been to see you about it. The whole affair was forced on me."

"Partly. It was lucky I was there and sober enough to think of cutting the cord of the lamp. You vanished, as I thought you would, and I have been attending to your affairs ever since. Any other man would have been laid by the heels ere this, but the stars have been kind to me."

"Any other man who had not friend like you, Lisette. But do you really mean that I am safe from arrest?"

"I think so, from any court under the edict of Blois; but I had a devil of a dance."

"You have been goodness itself."

"My dear fellow, let that rest. All that you have to do now is to come with me and give me your case to the king, and I shall have you off the stocks in a twinkling."

"Belin! what good wind has blown you here? But how did you come in? There is no one in the house."

"There was when I came in, my friend. Do you know?" and he looked me in the face—"you have made a mistake of things?"

"I have known it already," Belin, I have just been to see you about it. The whole affair was forced on me."

"Partly. It was lucky I was there and sober enough to think of cutting the cord of the lamp. You vanished, as I thought you would, and I have been attending to your affairs ever since. Any other man would have been laid by the heels ere this, but the stars have been kind to me."

"Any other man who had not friend like you, Lisette. But do you really mean that I am safe from arrest?"

"I think so, from any court under the edict of Blois; but I had a devil of a dance."

"You have been goodness itself."

"My dear fellow, let that rest. All that you have to do now is to come with me and give me your case to the king, and I shall have you off the stocks in a twinkling."

"Belin! what good wind has blown you here? But how did you come in? There is no one in the house."

"There was when I came in, my friend. Do you know?" and he looked me in the face—"you have made a mistake of things?"

"I have known it already," Belin, I have just been to see you about it. The whole affair was forced on me."

"Partly. It was lucky I was there and sober enough to think of cutting the cord of the lamp. You vanished, as I thought you would, and I have been attending to your affairs ever since. Any other man would have been laid by the heels ere this, but the stars have been kind to me."

"Any other man who had not friend like you, Lisette. But do you really mean that I am safe from arrest?"

"I think so, from any court under the edict of Blois; but I had a devil of a dance."

"You have been goodness itself."

"My dear fellow, let that rest. All that you have to do now is to come with me and give me your case to the king, and I shall have you off the stocks in a twinkling."

"Belin! what good wind has blown you here? But how did you come in? There is no one in the house."

"There was when I came in, my friend. Do you know?" and he looked me in the face—"you have made a mistake of things?"

"I have known it already," Belin, I have just been to see you about it. The whole affair was forced on me."

"Partly. It was lucky I was there and sober enough to think of cutting the cord of the lamp. You vanished, as I thought you would, and I have been attending to your affairs ever since. Any other man would have been laid by the heels ere this, but the stars have been kind to me."

"Any other man who had not friend like you, Lisette. But do you really mean that I am safe from arrest?"

"I think so, from any court under the edict of Blois; but I had a devil of a dance."

"You have been goodness itself."

"My dear fellow, let that rest. All that you have to do now is to come with me and give me your case to the king, and I shall have you off the stocks in a twinkling."

"Belin! what good wind has blown you here? But how did you come in? There is no one in the house."

"There was when I came in, my friend. Do you know?" and he looked me in the face—"you have made a mistake of things?"

"I have known it already," Belin, I have just been to see you about it. The whole affair was forced on me."

"Partly. It was lucky I was there and sober enough to think of cutting the cord of the lamp. You vanished, as I thought you would, and I have been attending to your affairs ever since. Any other man would have been laid by the heels ere this, but the stars have been kind to me."

"Any other man who had not friend like you, Lisette. But do you really mean that I am safe from arrest?"

"I think so, from any court under the edict of Blois; but I had a devil of a dance."

"You have been goodness itself."

"My dear fellow, let that rest. All that you have to do now is to come with me and give me your case to the king, and I shall have you off the stocks in a twinkling."

"Belin! what good wind has blown you here? But how did you come in? There is no one in the house."

"There was when I came in, my friend. Do you know?" and he looked me in the face—"you have made a mistake of things?"

"I have known it already," Belin, I have just been to see you about it. The whole affair was forced on me."

"Partly. It was lucky I was there and sober enough to think of cutting the cord of the lamp. You vanished, as I thought you would, and I have been attending to your affairs ever since. Any other man would have been laid by the heels ere this, but the stars have been kind to me."

"Any other man who had not friend like you, Lisette. But do you really mean that I am safe from arrest?"

"I think so, from any court under the edict of Blois; but I had a devil of a dance."

"You have been goodness itself."

"My dear fellow, let that rest. All that you have to do now is to come with me and give me your case to the king, and I shall have you off the stocks in a twinkling."

"Belin! what good wind has blown you here? But how did you come in? There is no one in the house."

"There was when I came in, my friend. Do you know?" and he looked me in the face—"you have made a mistake of things?"

"I have known it already," Belin, I have just been to see you about it. The whole affair was forced on me."

"Partly. It was lucky I was there and sober enough to think of cutting the cord of the lamp. You vanished, as I thought you would, and I have been attending to your affairs ever since. Any other man would have been laid by the heels ere this, but the stars have been kind to me."

"Any other man who had not friend like you, Lisette. But do you really mean that I am safe from arrest?"

"I think so, from any court under the edict of Blois; but I had a devil of a dance."

"You have been goodness itself."

"My dear fellow, let that rest. All that you have to do now is to come with me and give me your case to the king, and I shall have you off the stocks in a twinkling."

"Belin! what good wind has blown you here? But how did you come in? There is no one in the house."

"There was when I came in, my friend. Do you know?" and he looked me in the face—"you have made a mistake of things?"

"I have known it already," Belin, I have just been to see you about it. The whole affair was forced on me."

"Partly. It was lucky I was there and sober enough to think of cutting the cord of the lamp. You vanished, as I thought you would, and I have been attending to your affairs ever since. Any other man would have been laid by the heels ere this, but the stars have been kind to me."

"Any other man who had not friend like you, Lisette. But do you really mean that I am safe from arrest?"

"I think so, from any court under the edict of Blois; but I had a devil of a dance."

"You have been goodness itself."

"My dear fellow, let that rest. All that you have to do now is to come with me and give me your case to the king, and I shall have you off the stocks in a twinkling."

"Belin! what good wind has blown you here? But how did you come in? There is no one in the house."

"There was when I came in, my friend. Do you know?" and he looked me in the face—"you have made a mistake of things?"

"I have known it already," Belin, I have just been to see you about it. The whole affair was forced on me."

"Partly. It was lucky I was there and sober enough to think of cutting the cord of the lamp. You vanished, as I thought you would, and I have been attending to your affairs ever since. Any other man would have been laid by the heels ere this, but the stars have been kind to me."

"Any other man who had not friend like you, Lisette. But do you really mean that I am safe from arrest?"

"I think so, from any court under the edict of Blois; but I had a devil of a dance."

"You have been goodness itself."

"My dear fellow, let that rest. All that you have to do now is to come with me and give me your case to the king, and I shall have you off the stocks in a twinkling."

"Belin! what good wind has blown you here? But how did you come in? There is no one in the house."

"There was when I came in, my friend. Do you know?" and he looked me in the face—"you have made a mistake of things?"

"I have known it already," Belin, I have just been to see you about it. The whole affair was forced on me."

"Partly. It was lucky I was there and sober enough to think of cutting the cord of the lamp. You vanished, as I thought you would, and I have been attending to your affairs ever since. Any other man would have been laid by the heels ere this, but the stars have been kind to me."

"Any other man who had not friend like you, Lisette. But do you really mean that I am safe from arrest?"

"I think so, from any court under the edict of Blois; but I had a devil of a dance."

"You have been goodness itself."

"My dear fellow, let that rest. All that you have to do now is to come with me and give me your case to the king, and I shall have you off the stocks in a twinkling."

"Belin! what good wind has blown you here? But how did you come in? There is no one in the house."

"There was when I came in, my friend. Do you know?" and he looked me in the face—"you have made a mistake of things?"

"I have known it already," Belin, I have just been to see you about it. The whole affair was forced on me."

"Partly. It was lucky I was there and sober enough to think of cutting the cord of the lamp. You vanished, as I thought you would, and I have been attending to your affairs ever since. Any other man would have been laid by the heels ere this, but the stars have been kind to me."

"Any other man who had not friend like you, Lisette. But do you really mean that I am safe from arrest?"

"I think so, from any court under the edict of Blois; but I had a devil of a dance."

"You have been goodness itself."

OWINGSVILLE OUTLOOK.

D. S. ESTILL, - - Publisher.

OWINGSVILLE, - - KY.

$1 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE.

NOTICE.—Obituaries, memorials, etc., not to exceed 80 words, inserted free; $1 charged for each additional eighty words.

Correspondents will please remember to always mail their items so that they will reach us on Monday. This matter is seriously important to us.

CLUBBING TERMS.

The Owingsville Outlook and either of the following will be sent for one year for the price named:

Outlook and Twice-a-Week Courier-Journal, $1.30.

Outlook and Weekly Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, $1.40.

Outlook and Louisville Daily Evening Post, $2.85.

Outlook and Live Stock, Lexington, $1.30.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For County Judge.

To THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF PATH COUNTY.—I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Judge of the Bath County Court, subject to the action of the Democratic party, and declare that I favor the following:—

1st. An economical administration of the fiscal affairs of the county;

2d. The payment of all just and legal obligations of the county in the most speedy manner consistent with public interests;

3d. A reduction of expenses, including salaries of county officers;

4th. The further acquiring and taking up of all the remaining turnpike roads in the county and keeping them in repair;

5th. An economical and judicial expenditure of the turnpike fund, to the end that free turnpikes may reach the free legitimate conclusions and expectations and desires of the people.

Upon these issues I solicit your support. JOHN A. DAUGHERTY.

We are authorized to announce L. S. Rogers, of near Sharpsburg, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Judge of Bath. Your support is solicited.

ANNOUNCEMENT.—To the Voters of Bath County: I am a candidate for the office of County Judge, subject to the action of the Democrats of the county, and if I should be nominated and elected will try to give my attention to the office, to do my duty to the best interest of the county, and as well to the poor as to the rich. Trusting to your good judgment in selecting your candidate, I am respectfully, your humble servant and fellow-citizen, D. S. TREMBO.

For County Superintendent of Schools.

To THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF BATH COUNTY.—I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of School Commissioner of Bath county, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Your support is earnestly solicited. J. D. MYERS.

We are authorized to announce Woodson F. Perry a candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Superintendent of Public Schools.

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1899.

Don't Get Scared.

The greatest show of all ages is billed for a sort of continuous performance this year. Indeed, the first act has already taken place in the form of the late cold snap. As will be seen in the article headed "Falf's Prophecies" reprinted in this issue, Prof. Rudolph Falf, scientist, is the advance agent of this show and billed the earth some years previously. But along in July and August the performance is to be wildly exciting, when the eastern coast of America is to be washed away by a mighty tidal wave, and earthquakes are to make islands of Florida and California. An intermission lasts then until Nov. 13th, when the grand finale comes in a finish contest between the earth and a comet, rough-and-tumble rules. It may happen that there will be nothing of earth or comet left but cosmic dust. Hence it is not advisable to purchase tickets for any concert after the main performance. The stars may chant a requiem, the music of the spheres may continue a sublime symphony, but if Falf's apprehensions come to pass all humanity, as ghosts, can dead-head it at the concert bigger than life.

Prof. Falf's predictions are interesting, but not convincing, despite his standing as a reputable scientist. It is within the bounds of probability that he is really speculating from a scientific basis and permitting his imagination to frolic with his facts.

Astronomy is a favorite field for the speculative scientist. Camille Flammarion, the French astronomer, loves to imagine the dire results likely to follow in time the working out of natural laws.

Our own Mr. Hicks, of St. Louis, from a professed scientific standpoint, issues regularly his meteorological forecasts, that are accepted at face value by a wide constituency, although he has failed nearly uniformly to hit on the really important occasions. For instance, he failed in his generally circulated prediction for last month to make any mention of the terrible and long continued cold wave that made a new record in a large part of the United States. Also, for March, 1893 (?), he predicted a dreadful time of earthquakes and storms, when in fact March turned out to be the most lamb-like March in a long series of years. The records will show that he has missed it badly many a time, proving that however much he forecasts from a scientific basis his conclusions are not truly scientific, but are merely speculative. On the other hand, while his predictions partake somewhat of the nature of the utterances of the Delphic oracle, he does forecast the weather often enough to make a great many believe in his prophecies, or, at least, to eagerly read them.

These sorts of scientific speculations are all right in their place, but they are out of their place when they assume to give the value of what will be to what may be. When astronomers agree in calculating what will be the position of the heavenly bodies at a certain time the world accepts their conclusions as truly scientific. If Falf's conclusions are really scientific there ought to be no permanent difficulty in showing to other scientists the accuracy of what he predicts will result from the operation of natural laws. Until he does so laymen ought to feel no more serious apprehensions than they did in regard to Mother Shipton's famous rhymed prophecy of the Cosmic Ballyhoo that didn't occur in 1881.

But a short time ago gold as money was so inhospitably treated and so fiercely abused that it fled from circulation among the people. But times have changed, and gold has returned among the people, making friends with them and pleading for their hospitality as it hasn't done since the Civil war.

President F. S. Allen, of the Exchange Bank of Sharpsburg, received this letter from a correspondent:—

"Cincinnati, O., March 13th, 1899.

"Gentlemen:—

"There seems to be a great scarcity of shipping currency—that is, 5¢, 10¢ and 20¢ bills only in Cincinnati, but not in the country. We cannot get any of this currency from our Ass't. Treasurer of the United States in Cincinnati, as they are paying gold for checks on themselves. We are finding it necessary for the present on our orders for currency to ship gold. You may be assured we will not ship it if we can get anything else. Please advise us if this meets your approval."

"Yours respectfully,

"O. H. Tupper, Cashier.

At Washington the Treasury Department is forcing gold into circulation, partly because of the scarcity of paper currency and probably partly for the purpose of again familiarizing the people with the yellow money,—the real thing, that goes in all the civilized world for its actual weight and fineness, regardless of the credit of the nation that has put its stamp upon it. The United States might be sunk into the sea by a Falb earthquake, but U. S. gold coin would still pass current, not by reason of the stamp upon it, but because of the value of the imperial yellow metal in it; whereas U. S. paper currency in like event would be worth about the same as Confederate paper money.

H. A. Lyter and wife visited Thomas Ryan and wife, at Rutherford, Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. Pearce Goodpaster and sister, Mrs. Jennie Hamilton, visited Mrs. Ella Newell, near Mt. Sterling, last week.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather there was not a large crowd to hear Elder Tinsley at Harper's Sunday evening.

Thomas Jones and little son Charlie, of near Millersburg, were in the neighborhood last week on business and were the guests of Nathaniel Markland.

W. D. Darnell and wife, after a week's visit to relatives on White Oak, visited Mrs. Darnell's sister, Mrs. Pearce Goodpaster, Sunday night en route home.

Salt Lick.

Our public school closed Friday.

Mrs. Jennie Staton is very low with consumption.

Miss Kate Bates, of Riverside, is visiting relatives here.

Miss Lizzie Green visited in Farmers one day last week.

Espy Hopkins has moved to the property vacated by James Hiley.

Z. T. Crain purchased of Ed Anderson a 5-year-old mare for $60.

W. A. Whitecomb and J. H. Campbell were in Mt. Sterling Monday.

The Salt Lick Brick & Tile Factory resumed operations last week.

H. H. Lewis and Henry Wiles attended County Court at Mt. Sterling Monday.

M. P. Morris and wife, of Yale, visited the latter's mother, Mrs. Vina Dickerson, Sunday.

Rev. W. G. Vaughn commenced a series of meetings at the Methodist Church Saturday night.

Last Sunday we had what we thought was the last touch of winter. The rain of Saturday night turned to snow and made us feel that something had gone wrong with our calendar and we had been pushed back into mid-winter again.

Crooks.

A mad dog passed through here last week.

Jack Pierce, of Mt. Sterling, was here last week.

Nearly everybody is through burning tobacco beds.

Born, March 15, to Mrs. Archie Carmichael, a ten-pound boy.

A house belonging to George Elbridge burned about 4 o'clock Friday morning. Some insurance.

This neighborhood is overrun with disease, such as mumps, measles, whooping-cough and grip.

Died, at his home on the Forge Farm, about 12 o'clock on Sunday night, of a gripe and old age, Alexander Carmichael, aged 79 years. He was born in North Carolina, and moved to Menifee County about 35 years ago, resided there until about 10 years ago, when he moved to this county, where he has since resided. He leaves a loving wife, seven sons and four daughters and about sixty-five grand-children to mourn his death. He was a highly esteemed citizen, loved by all who knew him. He was an affectionate and loving husband, a kind and gentle father. He was laid to rest Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Frame burying ground. To the relatives we extend our deepest sympathy, and they should be consoled with the words that such a good and just man is resting above.

Acting GOVERNOR WORTHINGTON is running his pardon mill as usual during the absence of Governor Bradley from the State.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Forge Hill.

James Day, of Fleming county, bought a horse of W. A. Williams for $80.

William Conley, of Rowan Co., has moved to the property lately purchased by J. Roe Myers.

James Anderson is not expected to live but a few days. Later—he died at 1:30 a.m. Tuesday morning.

The officers of the Slave Valley Christian Church are to be congratulated on having secured Bro. B. F. Parker to preach at that place this year. The choice seems to be agreeable to almost every member.

Grange City.

Lewis Fauns has the measles.

Miss Jessie Myers is visiting relatives in Bath county.

Geo. Colliver and family moved to Poplar Plains last week.

Edward Walton and family have moved to M. C. Price's farm.

Miss Agnes Shepherd, of Cowan, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ollie Williams.

Miss Myrtle McLain, of Bath Co., visited her parents here Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Richards, of Owingsville, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. T. J. Havens, near town.

Naylor's Branch.

Mrs. John Goodpaster has rheumatism.

Miss Lucy Coyle lost by death a yearling colt.

Mrs. C. W. Markland continues about the same.

There are very few tobacco beds burn in this community.

J. M. Richart purchased of John Horseman his crop of tobacco at 5¢.

Warren Warner has been sick with something like flux, but is now better.

Silas Barber had 2 sheep killed by dogs one day last week, and four more badly injured.

Everybody seemed to be pleased with Brother T. S. Tinsley's lecture at the Slate Valley Church.

Died, on Friday, March 17, at 2:30 o'clock p. m., 3 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Coyle.

It was reported to your scribe that Reuben Maddox had died from a hemorrhage of the lungs. I can't say that it is true.

Crum Bros. delivered 6,600 lbs. of tobacco to Robertson & Stone, of Bethel, at 6¢. If farmers can't get five and six cents for good tobacco they had better go into some other kind of business, for to get a living it is conceded that trusts or combines are against the interest of all farmers.

Upper Prickly Ash.

Misses Era and Fannie Hamilton visited friends on White Oak last week.

Elder B. F. Parker will preach at Harper's school-house next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

There will be prayer-meeting at Harper's school-house every Saturday night.

Dr. Judy and wife visited at Salt Lick, moved into the house vacated by Woodward Shroud.

Bethel.

Miss Orear, of Mt. Sterling, is visiting John Clinkenbeard and Anna.

S. P. Baird and wife, of Carlisle, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Cy Arasmith.

Mrs. Ed Henderson and Miss Kate Atkinson, of Moorefield, are visitors at Will Henderson's this week.

Prof. Festus Kash, of Upper Licking, was here last week prospecting with the school trustees for the public school this fall.

Miss Hallie Young and Miss Anna Trumbo, of Owingsville, were at D. S. Trumbo's Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. Will Baird and Cy Arasmith are on the sick list. Also there are plenty of measles. Henry Peters, Bob Arasmith and others are down with it.

Miss Florence Arasmith returned home Thursday from Mt. Pleasant in March, that being the regular meeting day.

Moving considerable here up to this time. Ed Staton moved onto the county farm with Capt. Wells. Bob Sorrell goes to the house vacated by Staton. Ben Shroud is going where Sorrell lived; A. W. Shroud where Ben Shroud lived, and Luther Shroud goes to A. W. Shroud's house.

It is reported that Elder H. C. Downey's daughter has the measles.

She was at a quilting at Mrs. Cray Reeves, the day before the measles broke out on her.

There were a good many there that never had the measles, and there is considerable uneasiness in this vicinity at present, as there is scarcely a family around here but some of the family has never had it.

Okla.

R. P. Whittom has completed and moved into his new residence.

Z. T. Crain purchased of Ed Anderson a 5-year-old mare for $60.

Espy Hopkins has moved to the property vacated by James Hiley.

Taylor Crain sold to John P. Denton a nice 3-year-old mare for $50.

M. R. McGregor, our worthy merchant, visited relatives near Hillsboro Sunday.

John McClure and wife, of near Sherburne, visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. McLain, last week.

Mrs. Bertha Copher, of Lick Branch, visited Miss Martha Gray Friday and Saturday.

Misses Bertha Vice, Iva Denton and Mrs. Minnie Crain were in Owingsville Friday shopping.

John McClure and wife, of near Sherburne, visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. McLain, last week.

Mrs. Nathan Vice and daughter Misses Louisa and Addie, of Indian Creek, were the pleasant guests of Mrs. C. Gorrel Monday.

There will be a box supper given here Saturday night, March 25th, proceeds to go to finish painting the school-house. Let us all lend a helping hand.

Crooks.

A mad dog passed through here last week.

Jack Pierce, of Mt. Sterling, was here last week.

Nearly everybody is through burning